

Debriefing information

Thank you very much for your participation.

What is the purpose of this study?

The project will investigate which learning resources students have found most useful and therefore help make future decisions and recommendations around developments for future students.

Can you tell me my results?

Since submissions will undergo anonymisation during analysis we cannot provide anyone with their or any others' individual results from this study, although we would be delighted to share the final report with you if you are interested.

If there are any further questions or concerns about this study, or if you would like to discuss the study or read the final report, please do not hesitate to email me: david.hodge@glasgow.ac.uk

Future withdrawal

Should you wish to later withdraw your participation then you should contact me on the email address above, and your data can be removed from the dataset. This can only be done before the data have been anonymised. This anonymisation will occur after the survey closes and after the summer exam results have been finalized (typically mid June). After anonymisation I will be unable to identify your survey results, and remove them.

Thanks

Thank you again for your time and contribution.
